E-INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, SEP 25 2021

Working with documents, in whatever form (multimedia, textual, digital/physical etc.) is the backbone of academic research and the bulk of how students conduct research. Any 'artefact' that has been created in the past is a document and therefore can be used for research. While traditionally this was limited to books, journal articles and government/public policy documents (essentially the things students and researchers find in libraries and archival repositories) – today it is a vast field that includes social media, podcasts, videos and much more besides.

The resources below have been curated by the E-International Relations team. You can find more resources on our methods homepage.
